PRIVACY POLICY

In this Privacy Policy “Société Générale”, “we”, “us” and “our” means “Société Générale Belgian branch located at Louizalaan 149, 1050 Elsene (with company number 0455.297.412).

About this Privacy Policy

For the purposes of data protection law, we are a data controller in respect of personal data. Société Générale is responsible for ensuring that it uses personal data in compliance with data protection law, including the General Data Protection Regulation (regulation (EU) 2016/679 - “GDPR”) and any relevant applicable laws in Belgium.

This Privacy Policy applies to clients, legal representative or employees of Société Générale’s clients, beneficial owners of Société Générale’s clients and potential business relationships (hereafter referred to together as the “Clients”).

The Clients undertake to notify their representatives and employees (the “Data Subjects”) of this Privacy Policy.

This Privacy Policy sets out the basis on which any personal data that Clients provide to us, that we create, or that we obtain about Clients from other sources, will be processed by us. Please take the time to read and understand this Privacy Policy.

This Privacy Policy includes in particular:

1. The categories of personal data collected and processed
2. The purposes of processing of personal data
3. The Legal grounds for processing personal data
4. Communication of personal data to third parties
5. Transfers outside the European Economic Area
6. Retention of personal data
7. Rights of Data Subjects
8. Security of personal data
9. Contacting us

This Privacy Policy may be amended or updated from time to time to reflect changes in practices with respect to the processing of personal data or changes in applicable law.

1. Categories of personal data collected and processed

In the course of its banking relationship with Clients, Société Générale will collect and process the following personal data relating to the Data Subjects:

- Personal details: names, surnames, gender, birth dates and other elements of civil status;
- Identity documents: copy of passport, copy of identity card, example of signature;
- Contact details: work postal addresses, work and private email addresses, professional phone number, job title, scope of delegation;
- Financial details, including IBAN identifier;
- Employment data: work title and information relating to their professional and (where relevant) financial status;

- Data related to electronic identification and IT usage;
- Personal preference such as meals and rooms;
- Access to Société Générale premises;
- Content of any electronic communication (e.g. telephone calls and interviews, internet discussion, e-mails, data related to payment systems etc.) exchanged between the Client and us;
- Images and videos captured by the surveillance cameras installed on our premises.

Please consult the Annex to this Privacy Policy for a detailed overview of the categories of personal data processed by Société Générale.

These personal data are collected either directly from the Clients, or via companies belonging to the Société Générale Group, or from public sources.

When the personal data are collected from the Clients (including their representatives or employees), the provision of the personal data requested is essential for the provision of products or services by Société Générale. Any refusal to do so may have as a consequence that Société Générale may not be able to provide quality services to the Client or may be in breach of a statutory or regulatory obligation applicable to Société Générale.

2. Purposes of processing personal data

The above personal data will be stored and processed by Société Générale for the following purposes:

- Complying with statutory and regulatory requirements to which Société Générale is subject and managing internal compliance, particularly in matters concerning identification controls, checking transactions, operational risk management, the prevention of conflicts of interests, the prevention and detection of fraud and related crimes, the fight against money laundering and financing of terrorism, regulatory reports and financial communications ;
- Financial management of Société Générale ;
- Management and performance of the contractual relationship between Société Générale and the Client, including on-boarding, credit analysis, creation of consolidated risk profile for the Client, implementing an improved client service policy ;
- Management of payment systems & services and associated flows ;
- Management of audit and inspection ;
- Administering and operating account, providing; offering and managing finance and trading products and services, including remote banking ;
- Business development of corporate prospects and Clients, including marketing, organizing of events and conducting surveys ;
- Security of the premises and property of Société Générale;
- Management of third party services providers and vendors ;
- Management of legal affairs and judicial proceedings ;
- Management of the rights of the data subjects, including for internal statistical purposes.

Furthermore, Société Générale will, in accordance with applicable legal requirements, record electronic communications (phones, e-mails) with its Clients and counterparts. When it occurs, the recording of electronic communication by Société Générale is made for the purpose of establishing proof of transactions or of another professional communication. Data pertaining to electronic communications and the content of said communications may be saved until the end of the period during which the underlying transaction can be legally disputed. The Client undertakes to inform his employees and representatives that any communication with Société Générale must be strictly confidential and professional.

Please consult the Annex to this Privacy Policy or a detailed overview of the purposes of personal data processing by Société Générale.

3. Consequences of not providing

If Société Générale asks you to provide personal information to comply with a legal requirement or to perform a contract with you, we will make this clear at the relevant time and advise you whether the provision of your personal information is mandatory or not (as well as of the possible consequences if you do not provide your personal information). Consequences of not providing the requested information could result for Société Générale in not meeting our legal requirements and not providing the service as intended, as we may not be able to accomplish some or all of the purposes outlined in this Privacy Policy.

4. Legal grounds for processing personal data

The processing of personal data is based on:

- the necessity to perform a contract ;
- a statutory or regulatory requirement ;
- the legitimate interest of Société Générale (see Annex for further details).

Please consult the Annex to this Privacy Policy for a detailed overview of the legal grounds for the processing of personal data by Société Générale.

5. Communication of personal data to third parties

Personal data processed by Société Générale may be communicated to the following recipients:

- employees, agents, representatives and consultants of Société Générale;
- other legal entities within the Société Générale Group;
- external legal advisors;
- external fraud detection services; and
- external service providers having a contractual relationship with Société Générale;

for the purpose of (i) managing its banking relationship, managing products and services, executing the account holder's orders and transactions, managing accounting procedures of the Group, notably when pooling resources and services with the Société Générale group and

(ii) entrusting certain operational functions to other entities of the Société Générale Group or to service providers chosen for their expertise and reliability to provide specific services.

In such cases, Société Générale will take all physical, technical and organizational measures necessary to ensure the security and confidentiality of personal data.

Furthermore, Société Générale may also disclose personal data, upon request, to the official organs and administrative or judicial authorities of a country, located within or outside the European Economic Area, particularly in the context of the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing.

6. Transfer outside of the European Economic Area

Given the international scope of Société Générale group, and in order to optimize quality of services, the processing of personal data mentioned above may involve the transfer of personal data to countries outside the European Economic Area (EEA), whose legislation on the protection of personal data is different from that of the European Union.

The personal data may also be processed by staff operating outside of the EEA who work for our affiliates or other companies of Société Générale Group or for one of our suppliers and service providers.

Where we transfer personal data outside the EEA, we will ensure that it is protected in a manner that is consistent with how personal data will be protected by us in the EEA. This can be done in a number of ways, for instance:

- the third country that we send the data may be declared as offering an adequate level of protection through a European Commission decision ;
- where the recipient is located in the US, based on the EU-US Data Privacy Framework if the recipient of the personal data is certified ; or
- the recipient might have signed up to a contract based on “model contractual clauses” approved by the European Commission, obliging them to protect your personal data.

In other circumstances the law may permit us to otherwise transfer personal data outside the EEA. In all cases, we will ensure that any transfer of personal data is compliant with applicable data protection law.

More details of the protection given to personal data when it is transferred outside the EEA (including a copy of the standard data protection clauses which we have entered into with recipients of your personal data) can be obtained by contacting us in accordance with the “Contacting us” section below.

7. Retention of personal data

Personal data will be kept no longer than necessary in relation to the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed.

How long we hold your personal data for will vary. The retention period will be determined by various criteria including:

- the purpose for which we are using it – we will only keep the data for as long as it is necessary to achieve the purpose for which they are processed;
- legal obligations – laws or regulation may set a minimum or maximum period for which we have to keep your personal data; or
- the statutory limitation period for potential or existing claims.

Please consult the Annex to this Privacy Policy for a detailed overview of the retention periods of personal data processed by Société Générale.

8. Rights of the Data Subjects

The employees and representatives of the Clients (Data Subjects) have the following rights:

- the right to obtain information regarding the processing of their personal data and access to the personal data which Société Générale holds about them;
- in some circumstances, the right to receive some personal data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and/or request that Société Générale transmits those data to a third party where this is technically feasible. This right only applies to personal data which the Data Subjects have provided to us;
- the right to request that Société Générale rectifies their personal data if it is inaccurate or incomplete;
- the right to oppose against the processing of their personal data for direct marketing purposes;
- where the processing is based on consent, the right to withdraw consent at any time, without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal.
- the right to object, on grounds relating to their particular situation, at any time to processing of personal data concerning them which is based on our legitimate interest, including profiling based on that legal ground. Société Générale shall no longer process the personal data unless it demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override the interests, rights and freedoms of the Data Subjects or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims;
- the right to request that Société Générale erases their personal data in certain circumstances. There may be circumstances where the Data Subjects asks us to erase their personal data but we are legally entitled to retain it;
- the right to request that Société Générale restricts its processing of their personal data in certain circumstances. Again, there may be circumstances where the Data Subjects asks us to restrict its processing of their personal data but we are legally entitled to refuse that request.

Data Subjects can exercise their rights by contacting us using the details set out in the “Contacting us” section below, including a copy of both sides of the ID cards of the relevant individuals.

Société Générale will carry out requests promptly unless we will have a strict business interest not to fulfill requests to the extent permitted by law. Société Générale will revert on how requests will be handled within 1 month after reception of the request.

Data Subjects may also lodge a complaint with the local data protection authority if they deem it appropriate.

In Belgium, the competent data protection authority is the Belgian Data Protection Authority (or “Autorité de protection des données” in French or “Gegevensbeschermingautoriteit” in Dutch), rue de la Presse, 35, 1000 Brussels or by searching their website at <https://www.autoriteprotectiondonnees.be/citoyen> or <https://www.gegevensbeschermingsautoriteit.be/burger>.

9. Security of personal data

Société Générale takes all reasonable physical, technical and organizational measures needed to ensure the security and confidentiality of personal data, particularly in view of protecting it against loss, accidental destruction, alteration, and non-authorized access.

Société Générale applies strict security measures to protect the confidentiality and integrity of your personal data when transferring, storing or processing it.

Société Générale uses physical, administrative and technical security measures to reduce the risk of loss, misuse or unauthorized access, disclosure or modification of your personal data. All of Société Générale’s employees have signed a confidentiality agreement.

Société Générale stores your personal data on secure servers that are located either at our offices, at the offices of our subcontractors, or at fully classed data centers. Only authorized personnel can access the information on these servers. Where our Clients’ personal data needs to be disclosed to our subcontractors, we require them to process and protect personal data in a manner consistent with this privacy policy and applicable laws.
